Proposal for Really Really Free Market

What- The Really Really Free Market is an event where community members are encouraged to bring items that are no longer of use to them but could be of use to others, and to share them in a large flea market style event where all of the items are available for free. The focus of the event is to bring community members together to freely share what they have to offer to one another.

The event has been held three times in Plattsburgh since the summer of 2011, and was very well received by community members of many ages and backgrounds. Goods shared at previous Free Markets have included clothing, books, housewares, movies, music, toys, furniture, instruments, electronics, art and more. Most recently, we held the event last June in Trinity Park and would love to make it an annual tradition in this space. It was well received by all involved and went off without a hitch.

In addition to goods, people are welcome to share skills and services such as hair cutting, massage therapy, face painting, story telling or whatever else they have to offer.

Local businesses have participated in previous Free Markets by offering gift certificates and samples, and foot traffic to the event spills over to support downtown businesses.

We would like to accompany this event with live acoustic music, which would require light amplification. We are also interested in featuring performances by local puppeteers, stilt walkers, performance artists and others to create a family friendly, whimsical and unique atmosphere.

We want to hold this event in Trinity Park, and will be providing tables, chairs and tarps to display items, and we will be providing a crew for setup and cleanup of the grounds and removal of all leftover market items.

Date- Saturday, June 15th, 2013

Time- setup would start at 9:30, event scheduled to begin at 11:00 am musical performances to occur throughout day and into early evening, with cleanup being finished by 10:00 pm at the latest.
